Foundation Opportunities

Education and Youth. The Coca-Cola Foundation provides grants to youth and education programs in Atlanta and other cities including Washington, DC. Target areas are higher education, classroom learning, and global education. The next deadline for applications is September 1, 2000. For more information, see www.thecoca-colacompany.com/foundation/index.html.

Capital City Initiatives Grants. The Fannie Mae Foundation's grantmaking in DC is targeted to charitable, nonprofit organizations that either provide direct services and programs to the community or strengthen the community's infrastructure, especially in lower-income neighborhoods. The foundation has adopted five priority funding goals for 2000:

- support sustainable neighborhood-focused housing and community development;
- increase the human and development potential of underserved populations;
- promote arts and humanities as a community-building tool;
- encourage community service to reduce homelessness and address other community problems; and,
- facilitate civic engagement and renewal.

Applications are considered three times per year and the next deadline is July 27, 2000. Application requirements and more information can be obtained by calling (202) 274-8013 or visiting www.fanniemaefoundation.org.

Resources & Announcements

Resources for Nonprofits @ Helping.org. The AOL Foundation and the Benton Foundation present Helping.org, one of the best Internet portals for the nonprofit community. Key areas include volunteers, charity search, resources and bridging the digital divide. "Resources for Nonprofits" is an excellent classification of web-based sources of information on funding opportunities and management tools. Visit www.helping.org/nonprofit/.

Connecting the Nonprofit Community. Charity Channel is the largest on-line network of nonprofit professionals and supporters. Dozens of discussion forums have been established to encourage dialogue about fundraising, philanthropy, and grants management. DCMetro@CharityChannel.com is a listserv specifically for nonprofits in the DC metropolitan area. Visit www.charitychannel.com. And, if you are already a subscriber to DCMetro, then please take advantage of the opportunity to share ideas and events with others in the area.

The Office of Grants Management and the Justice Grants Administration have moved!
